WOODARD CASE GOES TO JURY THIS AFTERNOON

The case of the city against Roy Woodard was in the hands of the jury in Judge A. E. Pratt's court early this afternoon, and a verdict was expected late today.

Upon the convening of the court this morning the arguments of the attorneys were made. Joseph Chez and George R. Barker appeared for Woodard and W. H. Reeder and R. J. Douglas argued for the city.

An incident in the argument of the attorneys came when Attorney Joseph Chez, in speaking of the conditions in the city, referred to the fact that the members of the sheriff's department could have been called to handle the situation. Attorney Reeder said that there was no need to call the sheriff's department to take a hand in the situation as the police were in the city for that purpose. He said the sheriff's department is not expected to interfere in affairs such as occurred in the city on August 28 unless called upon by the police.

TO OPEN AGENCY.
SAN FRANCISCO, Nov. 14. — The Riggers and Stevedores' union after having failed to reach an agreement with the Waterfront Employers' union, made preparations today to open its own agency for contracting stevedoring.Demonstration
By the Rooters
For the O. H. S.

Students of the Ogden High school held a demonstration prior to the game with the Weber normal this afternoon on the downtown streets. Cheer leaders had the students "yelling" with their utmost energy while songs and other school pranks were on the card. Principal Beeson was at the helm.

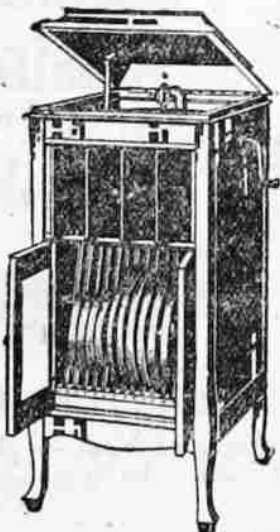

The school spirit at the Ogden High this season is far better than in other years. The game between Weber and Ogden High today should be a thriller. Both aggregations are primed for battle and it is expected that one of the largest crowds in the history of the game will be on hand to root. It will be the first game in the history of the sport in Ogden that the local Ogden and Weber schools have mixed.

Foreign Trade Is To Be Considered

SAN FRANCISCO, Nov. 14. — The increased importance of the United States with reference to foreign trade, particularly now that this country has become the creditor nation for the world, will furnish one of the important subjects for discussion at the coming convention in this city in May of the National Foreign Trade Council. One entire session will be given to this problem with another session to a survey of foreign markets with special consideration to the American products that are capable of development for foreign trade.

Another subject to be taken up by the convention of particular interest to American producers will be a study of the lines of American products and commodities capable of expansion for foreign trade.

Special ships will be run from the far east, from South America and from New York in the interest of delegates to the convention and two special trains will be run from points in this country to San Francisco.

Plans are in progress for enlisting special co-operation of chambers of commerce in production centers interested in foreign trade.

For the sessions of the convention the Pacific coast committee, having charge of the convention, have secured the great civic auditorium at San Francisco's civic center, one of the finest and largest buildings of its kind in America.

ALEX TOPONCE, EIGHTY YEARS OF AGE, IS VIGOROUS

Alex Toponce, one of the few survivors of the days when this western country was being pioneered, was 80 years old on last Monday. He spent the day at home, but is now preparing to depart for his irrigation project in Star valley, on the south fork of Snake river on the boundary line of Idaho and Wyoming.

Though 80 years of age, Alex Toponce is hale and hearty and he is ready to undertake hardships that young men would dread.

Classicum Issued

The initial issue of The Classicum of the Ogden High school made its appearance yesterday at the school. School artists showed their worth in the many drawings that adorned the book while every department was well represented. The editorials were well written and the short stories were themes of the first order.

A flashy array of jokes appeared and the old gloom chapter appears to be just as popular this year as in past years. The classes had their usual line of chatter represented and the entire book from start to finish was pronounced as worthy of commendation. A picture of Supt. Kal Hopkins appeared in the book, giving a short resume of the school work of Supt. Hopkins.

Supt. Karl Hopkins of the Ogden schools was the principal speaker at the Parent-Teachers' meeting held at the Mount Fort Junior high school last night. Aims and plans of the future were discussed and a co-operation of the parents and teachers was urged. A musical program included solos by Miss Smith, Miss Harris and Mr. Bingham.

TheatresAT THE PANTAGES.

The Pantages circuit has sent another bright bill to the Orpheum theatre. This week which yesterday's audience greatly enjoyed, judging from the laughter and applause which greeted the acts.

Purporting to hail from the state of dust and wind, Oklahoma Bob Albright produces a varied act of song and patter sufficient varied to entertain the widest range of taste. He was loudly acclaimed.

Porter J. White and company produce a sensational melodramatic one-act play entitled "The Hideaway," which tells the story of a white man's terrible fight to gain the victory of a strong liking for liquor. Chester A. Beach, Harry Lester and Miss Maude Hackett are members of the cast who with Porter White render the play in good style.

Anita Arliss formerly a star in the celebrated musical comedy "The Chocolate Soldier," has a delightful offering under the title of "A World of Song, Past and Present," which is staged most effectively and greatly enjoyed.

The bill is opened by the Four Morok Sisters in "An asial act de luxe" which is a high sounding title for a very good acrobatic, trapeze performance.

Although she has need to apologize for a most disconcerting bad cold Marie Fitzgibbons does not allow her physical disability to stand in the way of a successful rendition of a very clever comedienne act.

Al Canfield and Herma Rose in "As You Like It," keep their act going with tremendous vigor and in lightning fun keep the enjoyment of the audience well up to pitch.

PEOPLE ARE NOT IN SCHOOL

Nine hundred and sixty-four students between the ages of 11 and 18 years have failed to register for part-time work in the schools of Ogden, according to L. S. Noall, supervisor of part-time education. Noall stated this morning that the schools of Ogden, including the public schools, the high school, the Smith college, Weber Normal and other schools are crowded to capacity and the general opinion was that the students had reported for school under the new school law. Investigation, however, revealed the fact that hundreds of students had failed to register.

Letters explaining the new law have been mailed to all of the violators and thus far a great percentage of the tardy students have given their reasons for being out of school.
